

Mr. Dulles:

You will recall that we discussed a paper on radio jamming which Karl Harr proposed to give to the President. I cleared the last paragraph, which alluded very generally to us, with Gordon Gray.

Coffey, Karl Harr's assistant, told me at the OCB Meeting today that General Goodpaster had told Harr that he thought the President would like details on what we might be doing. He also said that either Harr or Goodpaster (I am not sure which) had discussed this very briefly with you on the phone and that you had said we had done some preliminary planning but nothing else. According to Coffey, Harr is trying to arrange lunch with you tomorrow, Thursday, 19 March, to discuss further with you what we might have in mind in connection with radio jamming. I suggested to Coffey that he tell Harr that Gordon Gray is aware of everything we might have done. He said he would pass this on to Harr. I later told Gray that I had done this and he said this seemed a reasonable way to handle it.
